PROJECT POSTER 2 OF 4 · WORKING SCREENSHOTS

Lexi AI in action

Every screen on this poster is a real capture from the running app – one 10-page vendor contract, a local Llama 3.2 3B model, no mock-ups.

Anatomy of a cited answer

1. Ask in plain English
   No query language, no keywords to guess.
2. Grounded answer, inline citations
   Each claim carries a marker like [5] that points to a numbered source.
3. Honest confidence
   Retrieval confidence (here 54 %, "Medium") is shown, not hidden – plus exactly which sources were cited.
4. Verifiable sources
   Each source lists document, page, relevance score and whether the model really cited it.

"What uptime does the Vendor guarantee, and what happens if it falls short?"

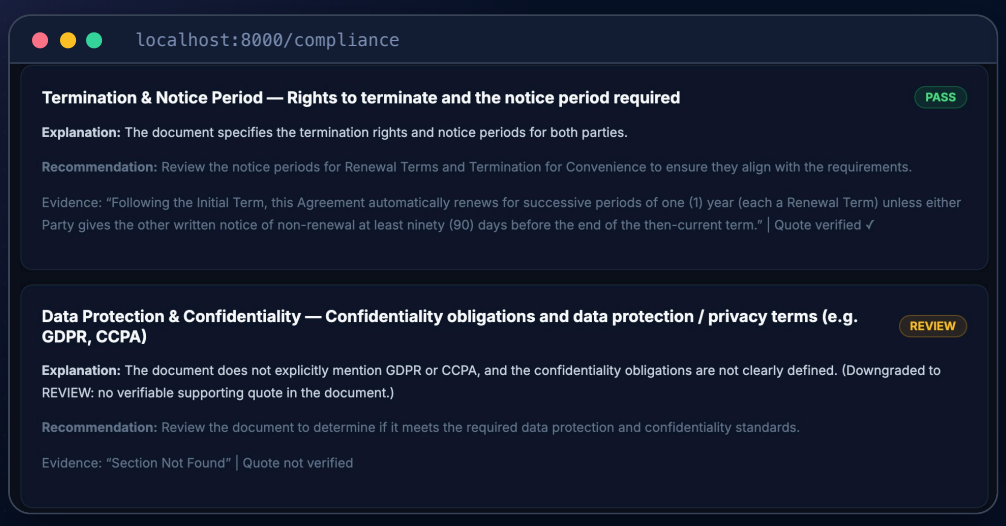

Contract §4.1–4.2: 99.9 % monthly availability; a service credit of 5 % of the monthly fee per full hour of downtime, capped at 25 %. The answer on screen says exactly that.

2 Compliance checker – a quote, or it doesn't pass

Every PASS must carry a verbatim quote that is machine-checked against the page; if the model can't back a claim it is downgraded to REVIEW for a human. Eight live runs: 0-4 of 6 checks passed. A verified quote proves a passage exists – a reviewer still decides if it proves the point.

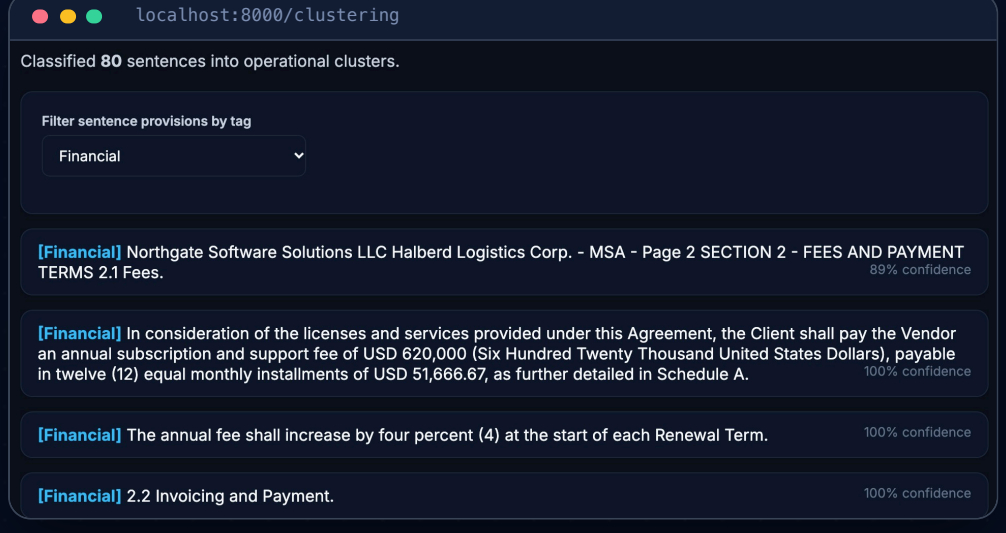

3 Executive briefing – the one-page read

One click gives bottom line, key decisions, risks, key numbers and next actions, citing the source chunks it used (6 of 8 runs) – and warning you when it didn't.

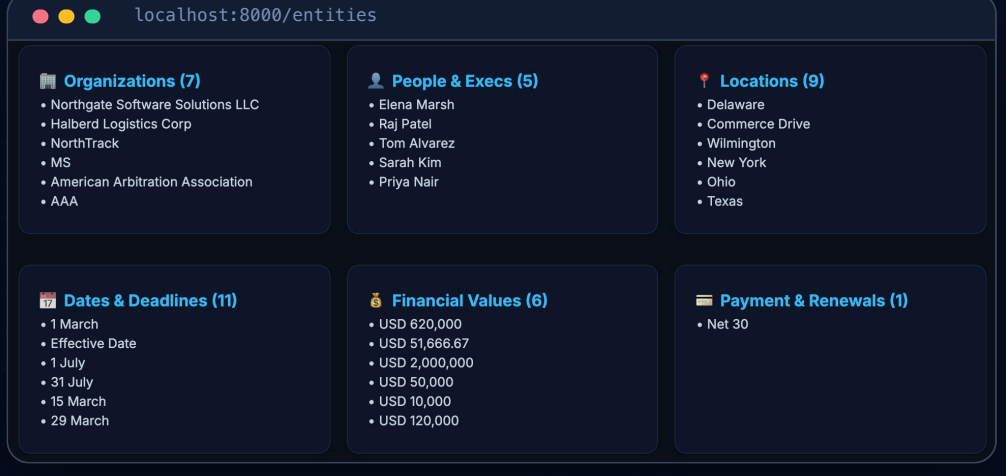

4 Sentence tagger – our trained ANN, live

The neural network from Poster 1 labels all 80 sentences of the contract and shows its confidence. Filter by tag – here Financial – to see every money clause at once.

5 Entities & clauses – structure from prose

Organisations, people, places, dates, money and payment terms, found by BERT NER plus clause rules in the same contract.
